State Legislature on the 10th Week, Expects To Convene in Summer

Reports. Unconfirmed. Said to be Substantiated to Continue Temporary Liquor Control System—Sales Tax Supporters Desire Special Session.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 5 (AP)—As the state legislature entered its tenth week today with most of its same problems still unsettled, reports came from authoritative sources that legislative leaders expect to be back in Albany for a special session this summer.

These reports, although not confirmed by Governor Lehman of the legislators, were partially substantiated by the move now under way to extend the temporary liquor control system for six months.

Such a proposal is expected to be laid before the legislature this week. If it is approved, a special session will be unavoidable.

Supporters of the two per cent retail sales tax also are planning to demand a special session. If the legislature fails to pass the Farnsworth bill during the regular session, there is considerable doubt, however, whether the governor would include the sales tax in the scope of the special session, even if he should be forced to call the legislators back to Albany. That he is opposed to this tax is no secret.

Meanwhile, the state mayor's conference continued its drive for passage of the measure during the present session. In memorandum sent to each member of the legislature today, Mayor Cornelius F. Burns of Troy struck back at the statement issued last week by Mark Graves, president of the state tax commission, in opposition to the sales tax.

A public hearing will be held on the measure March 13 and 14. The municipal officials and the State Real Estate Association are leading the fight for the tax, which would require $100,000,000 to cities, towns, villages and school districts to apply on debts.

As the legislators came back to the capitol today, they apparently were no nearer an agreement on Mayor LaGuardia's economy bill than they were a week ago. There appeared to have been no change in the situation over the week-end. There were reports, however, that Senator John J. Dunnigan and Assemblyman Irwin Steinberg, Democratic leaders, held secret conferences with representatives of the mayor in New York city.

The public utility question will be brought before the legislature again Wednesday, when the third public hearing on the governor's 12-point utilities reform program will be held before the Senate and Assembly committees on public service.

Another matter which held the attention of the legislature today was the guaranteed mortgage situation. While the legislative leaders were waiting to sit down with Governor Lehman and go over the plan advocated by Moreland Commissioner George W. Alger, Senator Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh Republican, sent a letter to bankers and insurance executives asking for their reaction on his mortgage authority plan.

"I earnestly urge that you and your counsel study this bill," Senator Desmond said. "Perhaps you will agree that it represents a better plan than the so-called Alger-Cook banker-corporation plan. At any rate you can be sure that this bill has a good chance of being enacted into law by the members of the legislature. If it is not a good bill I want to know it."

Twenty-eight bankers and insurance company heads assured Governor Lehman of their support in the Alger-Cook plan last week.

HONG KONG, March 5 (AP)—More than 200 persons were feared drowned today when a small overcrowded Chinese motor vessel, the Szehai, capsized in the Canton river near Canton.

Inattention of the passengers to the safety of the boat caused the tragedy, it was reported.

Officials estimated 270 persons were on board. One hundred and fifty were rescued by launches and sampans.

Roosevelt Summons NRA Leaders For Reduction of Working Hours

President Tells Assembly of Code Authorities That Industry's Immediate Task is to Re-employ More People at Purchasing Wages—Says Banking Structure of Nation is Sound and Liquid. Due to Improved Conditions—Reorganization Must Be Permanent.

Washington, March 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt presented today to the assembled NRA code authorities a summons for further reduction of working hours as a means to spread employment.

"I give to industry today this challenge," he said to the industrial leaders gathered in Constitution Hall. "It is the immediate task of industry to re-employ more people at purchasing wages and to do it now."

"Only thus can we continue recovery and restore the balance we seek. It is worth while keeping in front of our heads the thought that the people in this country whose incomes are less than $2,000 a year buy more than two-thirds of all the goods sold here. It is logical that if the total amount that goes in wages to this group of human beings is steadily increased merchants, employers and investors will in the long run get more income from the increased volume of sales."

The President said that a year ago today, (the day after Inauguration Day), the nation was "suffering and shrinking under economic pressures so intolerable that collapse was at hand. We had arrived at the day to make our choice. We made that choice. The American people responded to the call for action with eager enlistment—enlistment in the struggle against ruthless self-seeking, reckless greed and economic anarchy. We undertook by lawful, constitutional processes to reorganize a disintegrating system of production and exchange."

"Think back exactly one year ago today. You know where the banks stood at that time; you know where your own business stood. That telegram is a living illustration of the progress we have made. Let us consolidate our gains and let us resolve that consolidation shall be for the continued progress and especially for the greater happiness and well-being of the American people."

Industrial Board Will Meet Thursday To Consider Armory

Had Placed Remodeled Building in Class A Which Required That All Seats be Firmly Attached to Floor—Mayor Heiselman Had Taken Master Up—Expected Classification Will Be Changed to Meet Local Conditions for Use of Building.

The State Industrial Board will meet in New York city Thursday at which time it will consider the request to change the classification of the remodeled armory on Broadway which had been classified as a Class A theatre which under existing laws would make it necessary for the seats to be solidly fastened to the floor of the building, which would mean that the building could not be used for holding the annual balls and dances as in the past.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy over the week-end received a letter from the state board stating it had received a communication from Mayor Heiselman asking that the classification be changed and asking if the fire chief, who is the enforcing officer in the city, favored the change in classification.

Chief Murphy today wrote the state board that he favored the change in classification on the grounds set forth in the communication made to the board by Mayor Heiselman, and it is expected that the state board will change the classification so that the remodeled auditorium may be used as originally planned. It is expected that the change in classification will be made in time so as not to interfere with the holding of the annual Benedicte Ball in the new building.

Ambulance Calls Here.

The ambulance on Saturday removed Anna Collins from 48 Meadow street to the Kingston Hospital; Elmer DuBois from 41 Prospect street to the Benedictine Hospital; Mrs. Minnie Marblestone, who was taken ill in a store on Wall street to her home, 102 Albany avenue, and Virginia Williams from 186 Third avenue to the Kingston Hospital.

Two Navy Fliers Thought Lost in Crash Today.

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—The Norfolk navy yard reported to the navy department today that Lieutenant William P. Davis and Aviation Machinist Mate M. D. Marchall were believed to have been killed today when an airplane fell into the James river.

Salvage operations have been undertaken but the plane and the bodies had not been recovered.

Costes, French Ace, Was Delayed by Fog

MUNSTER, Germany, March 5 (AP)—Dieudonne Costes, known as the "Lindbergh of France," whom the world feared lost after he landed here Saturday because of fog, took off at noon today for Copenhagen.

Costes did not know until four hours before his departure today that he had been the object of a wide search after he failed to complete on schedule a flight from Paris to Copenhagen late Saturday.

A few hours out of Paris after taking off alone in his small private plane at 12:15 p. m. Saturday, the famous French aviator encountered fog over Bremen, Germany. He headed into Munster to await better weather.

Fifth Ward Republicans.

The Fifth Ward Republican Club will meet in the rooms this evening at 8 o'clock, and all members are asked to attend.

Flood Conditions Threaten County, Ice Jams Forming

Using Every Effort to Prevent Flood

Conditions As Warm Weather and Rains Cause Heavy Flows of Water.

Continued warm weather caused the snow to disappear rapidly over the week-end and today flood conditions threatening several sections of the county. Streams frozen almost solid by the severe weather are breaking up and ice jams have formed at several places and caused flood conditions. Every effort is being made to prevent ice jams from forming but the exceptionally heavy ice has caused difficulty.

There are several jams in the upper Rondout creek and the upper Esopus creek is also becoming clogged in places.

Early this morning an ice jam in the upper Rondout swept down and carried out half of the temporary bridge which runs from Napanoch over to the New York State Institution. This temporary bridge has been used during the construction of a new bridge at that point to replace the old covered bridge.

An ice jam was forming in the Esopus creek at Mt. Tremper. The temporary foot bridge which spans the creek from Mt. Tremper to Mt. Pleasant went out early this morning leaving no means of getting from Mt. Tremper to Mt. Pleasant except to travel along the west bank of the Esopus from Phoenicia and this road is dangerous in times of high water.

The banking structure of the country is sound and liquid and banks have never been in stronger position to function effectively. Conditions have improved to a point where it is no longer necessary for banks to be super-liquid. There is a definite call now for banks not to extend loose credits or to make improper loans but for a most sympathetic attitude towards legitimate credit needs and for a recognition of responsibility for their proper and vital part in the program of recovery.

"Thinking back exactly one year ago today. You know where the banks stood at that time; you know where your own business stood. That telegram is a living illustration of the progress we have made. Let us consolidate our gains and let us resolve that that consolidation shall be for the continued progress and especially for the greater happiness and well-being of the American people."

Alleged Slayer Of George Markis Had Hearing Adjourned

Alex Kish, charged with murder in second degree, has hearing adjourned for week, in Police Court.

—Other Cases Before Judge Gill—

Kish Being Held in County Jail.

Alex Kish, 63, of Woodbridge, N. J., charged with the slaying of George Markis, caretaker of the former Federation House on Hasbrouck avenue, was arraigned before Special City Judge Walter H. Gill in police court this morning and on motion of Judge W. H. Grogan, who appeared for Kish, the hearing was adjourned for one week. As Kish is charged with murder he could not be admitted to bail and was remanded to the county jail where he is being held.

Kish is accused of breaking into the former Federation House last Wednesday night looking for his wife, who occupied a three-room apartment in the basement. It is alleged that not finding his wife home he had gone upstairs to the Markis apartments, and that he found Markis standing there with a hatchet in his hand. Kish, according to the police, said that Markis struck him with the hatchet and he fired in self defense, and that he then finished the job with the hatchet.

Dora Mitchell Held.

Dora Mitchell, a negro of 59 Hasbrouck avenue, was arrested on a warrant Saturday afternoon by Sergeant Simpson, charged with selling liquor without having a license from the State ABC board. This morning she was represented in court by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, who entered a plea of not guilty for her and was granted an adjournment for one week.

Other Cases in Court.

William Brodhead, a negro of 45 Murray street, arrested for disorderly conduct on Broadway in using loud language Saturday night, was fined $2.

Michael Buboltz, arrested for disorderly conduct at his home early Sunday morning in using loud language Saturday, was fined $2.

Harry DeWitt, a negro of 55 Cedar street and Mrs. Mary Nichols, a white woman of the same address, both arrested on charges of public intoxication on Chamberlain street Sunday night, entered pleas of not guilty and their hearings were adjourned until Thursday and bail fixed at $25 in each case.

Louis Carpini of East Kingston, sleeping on the porch of a house on Washington avenue, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was fined $5.

Raymond Pough of Wrentham street, charged with hitting another man over the head with a chair Sunday night in the White Duck Inn on Grand street, had his hearing adjourned for two days and bail fixed at $50.

$279,541,000 War Department Measure Reported to House

Washington, March 5 (AP)—In language almost as hard-hitting as that used by a grizzled drill sergeant, a $279,541,000 war department appropriation bill today was reported to the House.

It would provide for maintenance of an army of 16,000 officers and 118,750 enlisted men during the fiscal year 1935.

As the outgrowth of a controversy over army airplane buying, it provided $10,000 to fill the vacant post of assistant secretary of air.

The report accompanying the bill, drafted by an appropriation subcommittee headed by Representative Collins (D.), Miss., directly questioned whether the $200,000,000 allotted for military purposes by the PWA and the $22,000,000 from the CWA were expended on projects "most needless from a national defense standpoint."

The sternly worded report also rapped at the army's procurement of airplanes.

Collins wrote that the committee "has not been unmindful of the recently alleged irregularities respecting airplane procurements actually made and projected, as well as other classes of procurements."

Referring to statements by Major General Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the air corps, during hearings on the bill, that Harry Woodring, assistant secretary of war, ordered changes in specifications for airplanes to be purchased, Collins wrote:

"These matters are under investigation by the appropriate agencies of the government—legislative, executive and judicial."

"The committee's first impulse was to withhold the presentation of the accompanying bill until the investigation of army procurement matters by the local grand jury had been concluded. However, in view of the active and aggressive inquiry that has been launched by the House military affairs committee, such a course would not now appear to be justified."

To provide an avenue whereby assistant secretary of war would not be responsible for the procurement of airplanes and policies of the air corps, the committee provided the funds for an assistant secretary for air. This post has been vacant since the Hoover administration, but the report pointed out that it was still authorized by law.

The bill carries $22,500,000 for the air service in the coming fiscal year, in addition to the PWA allotment of $7,500,000 for new aircraft.

Attacking the allotments of the PWA and CWA for the army, the report said that because of the emergency legislation making them possible "much of the normal appropriations functions of Congress was transferred to the executive branch of the government." The bill, it added, was intended to return these powers to Congress.

As reported, the measure is $2,000,000 less than the budget estimates of $282,622,000.

Of the total, however, $21,565,000 is for non-military activities. About $12,473,000 is included for army pay.

The $279,541,000 total is $90,000 below the appropriations for the current year, which amounted to $319,523,000.

Trouble is expected momentarily on the mountain road where slate and gravel slides are anticipated near Lomontville.

A number of phone calls were received this morning at the office of County Superintendent of Highways Loughran of floods of minor proportions where culverts were frozen. There was a bad condition near West Park where a stream flowed over the road on 3-W due to a frozen culvert. Water several inches deep flowed over the concrete.

Water and the frost going out of the ground loosened rocks in the cut just across the Rondout Creek bridge Sunday and several huge rocks tumbled down on the pavement. They were removed by emergency crews from the highway department. Rocks weighing nearly a ton tumbled down.

A clogged ditch on the Stony Hollow hill caused some trouble Saturday and a crew was sent there to clean the snow from the ditch and open up a culvert. Before the work was completed the water had worn away the pavement to some extent.

Up the Rondout valley, the only damage of consequence reported so far, following the break-up of the ice on the streams entering the Rondout, was at Ellenville, where the main body of the Bearkill broke through opposite the upper part of the fair grounds property and cut a channel between the race track and Binghamton, N. Y., March 5 (P)—With the Susquehanna and Chenango rivers, which flow together near the heart of the city, rising steadily after a night of heavy rainfall, hundreds of residents of low lying sections of Binghamton and the vicinity prepared today to quit their homes when the weather bureau announced that flood stages would be reached before six o'clock tonight.

Water Supply Endangered.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 5 (AP)—The flood waters which have been pouring into Lake Erie and the Niagara river today menaced the health of Buffalo, Niagara Falls, the Tonawandas and Lockport, which draw their water supply from the lake and the river. Residents were warned to boil their drinking water.

Boston Cleaners Closed.

The Boston Cleaners and Dryers shop at 732 Broadway will be closed for several days because of the death of Harry Silverberg at Suffern, N. Y., Sunday morning. Funeral services were to be held in New York today.

Defense News Case.

Chicago, March 5 (AP)—The defense in the trial of Dr. Alice Ladd, widow of Edward G. Robinson, filed a motion yesterday to discontinue the trial. The defense, who succeeded in getting a mistrial in the first trial,

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Huge Bank Salaries Are Reported to Senate Assemble at Albany

During a Busy Year in Bank History 16 Bankers Were Drawing Salaries of $10,000 or More—$70 Others Getting More than $25,000.

Washington, March 5.—During one of the most trying years in American bank history a year is where the nation saw an unprecedented bank "collapse," the bankers were drawing average salaries of $10,000 or more, and 370 others were receiving more than $25,000.

The disclosure of bank salaries for the year ending July 31 was made today by the Senate banking committee.

Mr. W. H. Taft, found that the gains and losses of the banks had been about even.

The cause of the losses remained somewhat of a mystery today. The theory advanced was that they were due to an electric current in the water lines. An electrical apparatus was being used to draw frozen water pipes in the vicinity of the rest room.

Hydro officials expressed doubt of this, because there had no apparatus was using only 20 volts. However, they discontinued the drawing until investigation can be made.

He Didn't Hear.

Kansas City—Mrs. Harry Bishop, ton her way home from the Union Station, told the taxicab driver, Charles A. Dillie, to turn west. The cab turned east.

Puzzled, she repeated the instructions. Then she grabbed the wheel just in time to prevent the cab from crashing into another machine. Stopping the cab, she turned to the driver. He was dead of heart disease.

Recompense?

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Lowell Cheyvers, who a year ago lost their one-year-old boy, have another one. They found a day old boy on their doorstep. It was wrapped in a woman's night gown and a blanket.

Show Their Stuff.

Chicago—Women have found a new industry in which they may display their talents.

Registration for the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association Convention showed that more than 35 per cent of the 6,000 persons registered are women.

They include sales managers, treasurers and presidents, in addition to wives and stenographers of new delegates.

Thanks, Mr. Salisbury.

New York—Burton Salisbury, weather man, was right last fall, so maybe he's correct now. He said then that a severe winter was ahead. Now he comes to bat with a prediction that winter is virtually over and that spring is just around the corner.

"Voodoo" of African Origin

Though Voodoo originated in Africa, the origin of the word has been a question which has perplexed many. Some writers would derive the term from the followers of Peter Valdo, the Waldenses, or Vaudois (which) of France, a sect that spread to Haiti, yet the prevailing opinion is that the term is of African origin.

Mother's Cook Book

SOME CANAPES

The canape has been popular for many years as an appetizer for the beginning of a meal. Usually the foundation is a bit of toast cut in some form and covered with slippery mixtures that not only please the eye but sharpen the appetite.

Caviar Canapes.

Season caviar with a dash of lemon juice and a few drops of onion juice, or rub the toasted circle with a cut garlic for flavor. Spread the caviar over toasted rounds of bread and sprinkle with chopped hard-cooked eggs. Garnish with a little fresh cream.

Mushroom Canapes.

Sauté mushrooms in butter until nicely cooked, season with salt and a dash of cayenne and place on thin rounds of toasted and buttered bread. Cover with chopped hard-cooked eggs. Garnish with curls of lettuce or sprigs of watercress.

Anchovy Canapes.

Toast rounds of white bread a golden brown. Spread with butter and lay on each round two boneless anchovies. Sprinkle with chopped hard-cooked eggs and dust with pepper. Garnish with crescents of lemon sprinkled with chopped parsley.

Tomato and Cucumber Canapes.

Sauté rounds of white bread in butter on one side. Fry slices of tomato in butter until well cooked, place on the round of bread, season with salt and pepper, spread with a thin coating of mayonnaise and top with a thin slice of cucumber. Sprinkle the top with chopped cooked egg.

Crab Meat Canapes.

Toast slices of bread and cut into circles, then into crescents. Cover with crab meat seasoned with lemon juice, salt, cayenne and molasses with a little thick white sauce. Cover the crescents resounding over the top. Spread with two tablespoonfuls of butter and one teaspoonful of egg white. Sprinkle with cheese and brown in a quick oven. Lobster meat may be used in the same way.

Habits of the Woodchuck. Woodchuck damage is rather diverse in its nature and includes injury to practically all crops, legumes being particularly attractive. Their burrowing habits also destroy considerable timber land and make footing for work horses and foraging cattle and sheep dangerous. In many localities they cause railroad grades, river banks and levees to cave in, resulting in floods and serious soil erosion. Like the bear, the woodchuck does not take the trouble to store up food for winter use. It accumulates considerable fatty tissue and lives on this during hibernation.

"Beakes," it having been recruited principally in Orange county. After the war Mr. Beakes for a while ran a dairy farm of his own, at Middleburg, but later with his brother, the late C. H. C. Beakes, organized the Beakes Dairy Co., one of the largest dairy organizations in the state, controlling 20 milk stations. Mr. Beakes was vice-president of the company when he retired eight years ago, the Dairymen's League having taken over the company. Mr. Beakes was twice married, his first wife having been Hanna N. The water is said to have been up to the door of the bridge and also the bridge further up the stream when it broke through and went down over the fair grounds property.

Sunday evening there was a stream

Two long log jams were noted on the Lancaster stream Sunday afternoon, both over half a mile in length. One extended from about the lower of Herk Falls, which is still covered with logs, a foot or more thick, and across the bridge at Accord to the Andes. The other jam, extending from the bridge at Accord to the Andes, about half a mile up the creek, had broken through and washed away the bridge and road, forming a deep ravine on the south side of the creek. The sand which had been washed and piled up awaiting delivery to the new bridge and moving off without trouble over half a mile the stream was filled.

Explaining The Child

By ERICKSON PETERS CHURCH
"YOU AND I TAKE POOR TO PLAY YOUR NEW PLACE FOR MRS. JOSEPH."

Sometimes Any world perform very nicely. All others who would either refuse to play at all or only after much persuasion.

The advisability of asking a child to play for people is in any event questionable. It helps the child to gain confidence. It has a certain value, but only to the child. For the Masters, unless they are interested members of the family, it is generally a very doubtful pleasure, and often causes them embarrassment when they are asked afterwards to express their appreciation.

Certainly a child should never be urged to play if it shows the least unwillingness. Generally the refusal is merely a bid for attention, and the mere permission that is used, the greater the child's success in taking the center of the stage and increasing his feeling of self-importance.

The child who recites or plays or dances before an audience should understand that the whole object of his performance is not to display virtuously, but to give pleasure. His attention should be directed outwards towards his listeners, and not inwards towards himself.

It is always a pleasure to see a child rise with ease and gracefulness, give his little contribution toward the entertainment, and then retire to his place again, with no effort to do either more or less than is asked of him.

No matter how indifferent his performance, his manner disarms criticism and leaves a pleasant impression. But the child who comes forward with the manner of one conferring a favor, or the arch expression of self-conceit, or who refuses to do anything without urging, or insists on playing encores when none was demanded, is always a parlor nuisance.

Chapter One PERFECT STENOGRAFHER

SPRING rain pelted at the office windows of the Bevins Construction Company. It sloshed on the big B, ran in a trickling stream through C-o-n and C-o-m, sheeted the aisle, then shot eighteen stories to the asphalt pavement.

Judith Lane looked at the window even as her fingers beat a ratatata-ratata-ratata on her typewriter. She should have known better than to wear a brand new suit on a morning when the wind was bound to blow up a storm... she'd have to call a taxi... ratatata-ratata-ratata... and her hat... maybe she could buy a magazine big enough to cover it while she dashed from lobby to curb... ratata... such a duck of a hat, delft blue and perky... so few hats these days looked good on her boyishly cut black hair... ratata... color made her eyes look almost blue instead of grey... tig!

With quick fingers she whisked the sheet from the roller, slid it across the desk to her employer. Tom Bevins, switched on his desk light with one hand and with the other reached for the telephone which whirred impatiently.

"Bevins Construction Company, Miss Lane, speaking. Oh yes, Jackson, I'll tell him. You'd better park the car and meet him in the lobby." She turned from the telephone. "Jackson's here with your car, Mr. Tom."

The big head with its shock of iron gray hair turned with reluctance. "Tell him to go back home. I've got three hours' work ahead of me. I'll call him when I'm ready."

"But Mr. Tom, you're scheduled to go to the Clement dinner. Mrs. Bevins called this afternoon and asked me to see that you left here by five o'clock. It's five fifteen now."

"Confound the Clements. Lines and chatter and not a thing fit for a own capital, if necessary, and with this end to view will leave here June first with my engineers to make a complete survey of the project.

"I am going to want legal protection every step of the way. For it is possible that the original promoters, finding they may make some more money out of that country, will try to horn in (you'll have to find some other word for horn in, Judy).

"I am going to want someone from your office, either you or one of your partners, to accompany me on this trip for the purpose of searching things, etc. My secretary, Miss Lane, will be available for any stenographic work in connection with the project both here and in the field, and will be familiar with all details pertaining to the expedition, should you call at the office during my temporary absence.

"I will appreciate your immediate attention to this matter and wish to know at your earliest convenience, which one of you (better make that

"Big Tom," as his men affectionately called him, had flushed to the roots of his hair.

"I let you in for that," he confessed. "A discussion of stenographers came up at the Engineers luncheon today. Klins of the Amalgamated said there was no such thing as a perfect stenographer, because such a person would have to have the brains of an Einstein, the patience of a Job and the endurance of a Robot."

"Judith," there was small-boy doance in his voice, "I not only admitted you possessed these qualities, I bragged about it. Caruso of the Tribune sat across the table from us and he must have listened in."

"And to think you're noted, internationally, for your accuracy," chided Judith. "What would happen if you exaggerated on bridge specification like that? I should ask for a raise, on the strength of what you're said, but you're already giving me more than I'm worth, so please, Big Tom, do go on home before Mrs. Bevins gets after me."

"Oh all right." He arose, walked slowly to his locker, pulled a slouch hat over his hair at a defiant angle and ambled out, slamming the door behind him.

The moon-faced clock on the tower of the Tribune leered at Judith. Big Tom would be late and Mrs. Bevins would nag at him. Poor, Big Tom.

It would be a relief to get him into the field again where he could relax. Mrs. Bevins didn't seem to realize that a man couldn't work at white heat all day, then dine and play cards all night. Of course she was considerably younger. She admitted being forty-two; Big Tom was past sixty.

Not that this was any of her business. Judith reminded Judith. She man to eat. I'll be so mighty glad when we get into the field and I can have real grab off an oil cloth table cover... says that reminds me, take this letter."

Judith reached for her note book, snapped a rubber band over the first page, chose a finely pointed pencil and waited.

"Dale, Lampere and Morrison... Better address this to Lampere, make it informal. Dear... ah, dear Morton: I spoke to you same time ago about the Rio Diablo project.

"In case you've forgotten (strike that out). To refresh your memory, about ten years ago, a fly-by-night ready mix company conceived the idea of damming the Rio Diablo, a temperamental stream in southwest Texas, north and east of the Rio Grande, a particularly desolate region.

"The idea of the dam was all right, I have no doubt but what irrigation and controlled water supply will turn it into one of the leading citrus fruit sections of the world. However, after they'd talked a lot of poor stockers (strike that out) homesuckers into investing their money in the land, had built a railroad spur into the country to carry these poor... ah, homesuckers, there, they decamped.

"When the affair (put in another word for affair, Judy) came to my notice I made a quick trip down there. I found about a hundred of these homesuckers still there because they didn't have any place else to go. They had sold their old homes to invest in this desert land and were there grubbing a mere existence out of the soil. The spur had been abandoned and their condition was pitiful.

"I decided, after my survey, that I would build that dam, out of my which member of your firm) will accompany the expedition—"

Judith snapped the band on her book—"Mr. Tom, you must go on home!" she snarled.

"Not 'til I sign that letter," he countered stubbornly.

With resignation the girl turned to the typewriter and sent her fingers flying over the keys. Ratata-ratata-ratata!

The margin bell echoed the final period, and again a letter whizzed across the polished surface of the desk and again the telephone whirred.

"Bevins Construction Company, Miss Lane, speaking."

"Really," drawled a f-m-inine voice. "Miss Lane, this is Miss Sanford of the Houston Tribune. Will you have dinner with me this evening?"

Judith's lips, which had curved into a smile at the sound of Miss Sanford's voice, framed a quick answer... "Delighted."

"Wait a minute," warned the other. "There's a joker in this invitation. The dinner is on the Tribune. I'm to interview a perfect stenographer."

"I enjoy that," returned Judith quickly. She'd been with Clia on other assignments. "Who is she?"

"You," answered Clia and before Judith could protest, "Meet me in the lobby of the Rice at six thirty."

Judith turned from the telephone with such an expression of bewilderment that Bevins, looking up from the letter he had just signed, laughed.

"What's wrong, Judy?"

"Nothing in particular," she faltered. "only Clia Sanford said she was going to interview a perfect stenographer this evening and that I was—she paused. Tom Bevins,

Pink and Blue Signals of Spring

New York—We're all in the navy now, that is those that are in the swim, by which is meant those fortunate enough to have enough money to plunge on a new outfit. It's almost sure to be a navy one, although black is the runner up. And all this doesn't mean a darkened spring either, for there is so much white and pink used with both black and navy that the effect is really very young and gay.

Fortunately the light parts are usually removable. You can't get wanted upon at most neckwear counters and accessories corners are jammed, and no wonder. There are other things worn with blue, such as pink, red, yellow, prints, beige and lighter blues. It's a blue season again, with navy a background for lighter and brighter shades.

And it's a pink season too, pink for evening and pink for summer and pink for spring accessories. Milliners especially seem to have gone sentimental. They are turning out all manner of "confetti" that are really worthy of the term, bon bon shades galore, and all manner of pretty pretties. Watteau, Romney, Reynolds, inspired hats that go back centuries in style despite efforts of others to go modernistic. The renaissance influence is credited with many of the romantic-looking costumes of the year.

One of the things that seems especially well liked is the fluttery sort of collar. Mention should be made of cuffs too, for the blanket rule is that when sleeves are not cut off at the elbow, or just below, they have wide flaring cuffs or some sort of cuff treatment to justify carrying the sleeve to its ultimate conclusion. It's the bracelet sleeve, which is short, of course, that really leads however.

Vionnet made a feature of the high stock collars of almost a hundred years ago, but most of the dressmakers feel inclined to give us our head in the matter of collars and seem willing to permit any sort of frippery at the neckline so long as it is soft and capable of looking windblown.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 5 (AP)—Governor Lehman today announced that he had signed eight bills over the weekend, one of which was the Twenty-first bill appropriating $53,000 for the expenses of the Automobile Beverage Control Board.

He also approved bills extending the life of the commission on highway bridges over the Hudson, Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers, the commission on interstate transmission of power and the Chicago World's Fair celebration commission.

The first and the last of these were extended for a year, while the power commission was given until March 26 to complete its report.

Two labor bills, introduced by Assemblymen William Breitenbach and Michael J. Gilroy, Brooklyn Democrats, were also signed. The Breitenbach bill extends for another year the five day maximum week for highway labor outside of cities and villages, and the Gilroy measure extends until March, 1935, the five day week clause in public works contracts. Both these are emergency measures passed originally to relieve unemployment by making more jobs on public works projects.

Another bill approved by the governor was a measure introduced by Assemblyman Horace Stone, Oneida County Republican, providing that towns going on a budget for the first

Mountain Ash or Rowan Tree

Those familiar with the mountain ash of Europe, which is similar to the native species, frequently call it the rowan tree, a common name wherever it is found. In Scotland, where it attains its greatest beauty, it is also referred to as the "whispering tree," for it is supposed to have secrets to tell. The superstitions believe it to be proof against demons and the evil eye. A spray of berries pinned on the coat brings good luck, while a tree planted in a cemetery will drive away the evil spirits that would disturb the dead and also bring flowers to place on the graves. It is one of the best loved trees of the Highland country.

London.—Just 100 years ago they laid old Thomas Malthus in his grave. He would stir there now if he knew what was happening in the world today.

Malthus was the man who linked population with the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse—war, famine, pestilence, and death—and made suggestions for curbing the birth rate. Today the three greatest nations on the European continent are sick and sick is rare to increase it.

France, Germany, and Italy are the leaders in the population stakes. With mass marriage ceremonies, state subsidies for newlyweds, cash bonuses for babies, and stiff taxes on bachelorthood, they are trying to make up for the "empty years" of the war—before another war comes along and steals them short handed.

Mussolini Enthusiastic

In his role of official Cupid to young Italy, Benito Mussolini has labored long and tirelessly, but to little avail. Now he has a formidable rival in Dr. Joseph Goebbels, who has been shooting arrows with 1,500 mark notes tied to them at lovesick German swains.

Despite the sterling example of the Duco has set for the nation with his own large family, Italy has responded disappointingly to his "more babies" campaign. Every week Mussolini reviews the work of his deputy cupids and considers new plans to encourage more marriages and bigger families. Yet the birth rate steadily declines. Since 1921 Italy's population has increased from 38,755,000 to 42,554,000. But whereas the birth rate was 39 per thousand in 1927, it fell to 22.4 in 1930; to 26.9 in 1932; to 24.9 in 1933, and to 23.8 last year.

Next year, therefore, Mussolini has decreed that the government shall give jobs to no more bachelors. Present bachelor incumbents are busily casting about for eligible wives.

The New "Festival of Marriage" held in Rome recently started its 2,500 simultaneously married couples off in life with Fascist checks for $30 apiece. On each envelope was written: "Gentlemen, if we decrease the numbers we shall not be able to build up the empire, but run the risk of becoming a colony."

Further stimuli are reductions of rent and taxes. The proud father of ten offspring need pay no taxes at all. Bachelors from twenty-five to sixty are heavily taxed.

Subsidies for Newlyweds

Across the Alps in Germany 100,000 couples have taken advantage of the offer of Cupids Hitler and Goebbels to subsidize new Nazi mothers. Goebbels is conducting the "more babies" propaganda on a gigantic scale. There are 7,000,000 fewer German children up to the age of twelve than there were in 1934.

The Nazi government will lead young couples up to $300, if the promised bride is willing to give up her job and refrain from working so long as her new husband earns a certain wage. The loan is paid not in cash but in vouchers for furniture, home or household necessities. It may be repaid in small installments.

The Scheme Has Created Some 50,000 Jobs

Jobs so far for young men, who now are able in turn to marry. Many of the new brides have turned their jobs over to their husbands, who were previously unemployed. For each new baby $100 comes off the taxes and furniture installments are suspended for the year.

France Has Long Encouraged Big Families

but is redoubling her efforts now that Germany and Italy are competing. There, too, the falling birth rate causes anxiety.

Business of Importance Will Come Up and all members are urged to attend.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 5 (AP).—Trading in the financial markets was virtual standstill for a time today as Wall Street attempted to interpret the President's N. R. A. orders at Washington.

Proceedings on the stock exchange were the quietest in some months. While a few leading stocks exhibited a rather steady tone there was no volume to indicate the general grain, cotton and other commodities.

emphasized the existence of certain dollar signs which almost exchanged hands during the meeting.

Some of the buyers and sellers, including American Tobacco Co., Liggett & Myers, B. American Commercial Agents, and National Distributors represented small gains. And others got up to 10 per cent losses due to a price of more than 100 per cent of American stocks.

Of principal interest to special forces was the Roosevelt challenge to industry to raise wages and further reduce hours in order to increase jobs and lift from the government the tax of furnishing reemployment.

Although it was felt in some quarters that higher pay and shorter hours would, at least temporarily, cut corporate profits substantially, there was also a disposition to consider the longer-term aspects of the problem with some degree of optimism.

Publication of the names of those who sold aviation stocks for both long and short account just prior to the recent break in these issues following cancellation of all mail contracts apparently had little effect on prices. Some interest was shown in the announcement that the Senate committee had ordered Counsel Peck to investigate short holdings in the aviation group with the view of determining if fictitious accounts were used by public officials.

PROTECT YOURSELF From “BOOTLEG” MERCHANDISE!

*The Ads in the Freeman
Safeguard Your Buying*

Freeman Ads Safeguard Your Time

You'll have more time for leisure if you let The Freeman ads plan each shopping trip for you. Before you leave home you'll know just which stores you're going to visit and what you're going to buy. No time wasted in walking around town comparing items and prices in a dozen different stores. You've done all that BEFOREHAND—in the pages of The Freeman! Shopping through the ads gives you extra hours for doing the things you LIKE to do!

Freeman Ads Assure Lasting Satisfaction

When you've made it a habit to buy from reputable merchants you know about—from advertisers who aren't afraid to let you compare their offerings side by side with others—THEN you'll find yourself getting longer life, more wear, and a fuller, lasting satisfaction from all your purchases. You'll know just where to find quality. You'll be a discriminating buyer. If all wares bought so carefully, the number of inferior “sucker-bait” goods would have to quit business.

INFERIOR “depression” merchandise is still flooding the country on the look-out for “suckers” who will buy. These goods are below a wholesome standard of quality—not worth the money or anywhere near it! Whether you order a quart of ice cream for Junior's birthday party or a brace of shirts for friend husband you cannot afford to take chances with this sub-standard merchandise.

How can you avoid being bilked on inferior goods—endangered by foodstuffs prepared in unsanitary surroundings—cheated on commodities made by children or sweated labor? There are two safe ways!

First, patronize reputable merchants. Certainly, avoid buying from the door-to-door peddler you know nothing about!

Second, read and shop regularly through the ads in The Freeman. Dealers who sell goods of sound quality do not hesitate to advertise them in the newspaper where you can read, study and compare their qualifications and prices. An advertiser who must spend money to tell you about his goods seldom endangers his investment by falsehoods and misrepresentation. A consistent advertiser whose business reputation depends on your continued good will never does!

Freeman Ads Protect Your Pocketbook

When you read The Freeman ads you can compare any merchant's offering for quality, description and price with others in the paper. You're protecting yourself against POOR quality and unreasonable charges. The reputable advertising merchant knows this. He welcomes your comparison. He knows it will build up your sense of discrimination, teach you to appreciate his own worthwhile goods and save you from making future mistakes.

And the NRA Does Its Part

When you shop the ads remember to look for the familiar little symbol that provides the best protection of all! Goods advertised “NRA” mean that no little children drudged weary hours in their making—no tired men and women slaved in a sweat-shop for a pitiful wage. “NRA” assures you that your purchase is made and sold by well-paid men and women who like their job well enough to bring you a carefully made, quality product!

Athletes of 29 Colleges Compete at Madison Square Garden Tonight—Brothers and Sisters Show Rivalry at 3,000 Meters.

New York, March 5 (AP)—King Levinsky gets a new chance to redeem himself and help Madison Square Garden in its quest for a new heavyweight challenger this week.

Picked by the Garden for a build-up campaign designed to send him into the ring against champion Primo Carnera in the summer, Levinsky tackles the hard-hitting German youngster, Walter Neusel, in the big Eighth avenue fight palace Friday night. He will need to win decisively if he is to be of any real assistance to the Garden.

Otherwise the national boxing program this week is marked only by a ten round "title" match between Barney Ross of Chicago and Frankie Klick of San Francisco in the latter's home town tonight.

Reconnaissance

By STEWART HOOKER

Editor of Kingston Freeman, N.Y. Times

"HE WAS my buddy," said Corporal McGivney.

A regular said Barnswallow, a private.

They bent over the limp figure of Larabee. He reeled on his back, eyes fastened on the stars. A burning parapet showered them with fragments.

"Never get him back . . . there . . . tonight," Barnswallow said, coddling in the direction of the trench from whence they had begun to reassemble some hours before.

Tim McGivney did not answer. He was thinking of the afternoon long ago when Jim Larabee had gathered up his all but lifeless form from the waters of Eureka lake. Larabee had labored over him all afternoon before his efforts, which at first seemed to be futile, brought a spark of life. That instant marked the beginning of an unflinching friendship. Even McGivney's marriage had not weakened the bond. Larabee was a frequent visitor in his home and pretty Mollie McGivney had taken a great liking to him, too. And now Larabee lay dead, victim of a random enemy bullet.

"Hold him on my back," McGivney instructed presently, hugging the ground.

Barnswallow sensed the futility of dissenting. "Well alternate," he said. Progress was desperately slow. Occasionally bullets whined overhead.

Presently McGivney felt his companion brush against his shoulder. It seemed hours since they had last spoken, but he knew it could not have been so long because of the inky darkness all around them. They had advanced perhaps twenty-five yards.

Barnswallow worked his way along side and Larabee's faidit figure was transferred to his back.

Rifles cracked with greater frequency and occasionally an airplane droned overhead. Then Barnswallow discovered McGivney had halted. The margin between his new stationary position was so slight that he had observed this immediately.

"It's getting light," Barnswallow murmured.

McGivney was silent. Barnswallow knew he was weighing their chances from every angle.

"You push on," he said finally. "Thick."

Barnswallow shook his head. "Nothing's doing," he protested.

"D—n it, one of us has got to report back," McGivney said, bitterly.

"You're the skipper," Barnswallow said.

McGivney lay still for a long while. A shell tore a hole in the earth, not fifty feet from where they lay.

"Guess we'll have to leave him behind," McGivney said after a while.

They deposited the corpse in the hole torn by the shell.

"I suppose," McGivney said, slowly, "we ought to search his clothes for . . . things."

Barnswallow nodded. Larabee had brother in Kansas City. He'd never married. Barnswallow raised to his knees beside the body. His fingers were numb and heavy.

"Go on," McGivney commanded, hoarsely.

Barnswallow fumbled at the button of Larabee's jacket. They were baked with dirt and dry blood.

His face was ghastly when he finished. He had gathered a pipe, tobacco pouch, a handkerchief, a soiled letter and a small photograph.

"Nothing of value," he said, bending toward McGivney, who seized the collection.

"Was this all?"

"Yes . . . hesitantly.

"What's that? In your other hand?"

"A photograph . . . of Jim," Barnswallow said. "You probably have one."

"I haven't," McGivney snapped. "He told me he didn't have one. Let's see it."

Barnswallow made no move to comply. McGivney cursed vehemently.

"Give me that picture," he commanded, springing from the ground. His voice keyed to the pitch of his emotions, carried to alert enemy ears.

A machine gun spattered bullets all around. McGivney pitched forward.

"Jeez!" he muttered, as his body convulsed, relaxed and was still.

Barnswallow flattened to the ground. He remained motionless for some time, cheek pressed against the damp earth. Then he remembered it was fast becoming light. Before pushing toward the trenches once more he knew he must confirm his startling discovery. He rolled over until his body pressed against that of his newly fallen comrade.

In the pocket of McGivney's shirt he located the object of his search, a small photograph of McGivney's wife, which the latter had proudly displayed on frequent occasions. Mollie McGivney was unusually pretty. The inscription on the back of the photograph read:

"Lovingly yours,
"Mollie."

Barnswallow compared this photograph with the one found in Larabee's jacket. They were identical, except that on the back of Larabee, Mollie McGivney had scrawled:

"To Jim, my own. Loving you always."

"Mollie."

The sun nosed over the horizon and there was a something clean and refreshing about the damp earth as Barnswallow wriggled forward.

4-H Members Take Special Problems

Ulster County 4-H Agricultural Club members who are excelled for their hard, four, fifth and sixth years in club work are carrying on a variety of interesting activities. Each one of these advanced members is asked to choose some special problem or problem in addition to his regular 4-H project. These are some of the things the members are doing:

Over 50 members are taking two or more projects, such as poultry and garden; dairy and agricultural engineering; or poultry and bee-keeping.

Eleven members have chosen raising raspberries as an additional project; 16 raising strawberries; 15; bee-keeping; 12; forestry; 53; agricultural engineering; and 10; identification of apple varieties and injuries.

Eleven older agricultural members are working as leaders of projects and leaders in their clubs. They are Bernard Krebs, Ulster Heights; Wesley Smith, Churchland; Ralph Penney, Walkill; George Schneider; Bill Hemy; Franklin Kelder, Accord; Forrest Hatchcock and Leslie Krom, New Paltz; William Lambourn, Sawkill; Hayward Mitchell, Ripton; Irving Friedberg, Accord; and Frank Haas, Walkill.

So far 10 advanced garden club members have enrolled in a farm study course in vegetable growing. This is one of the study courses given by Cornell University.

Poultry and dairy members are keeping special records of their work. Ten members are having their milk samples tested each month and keep a record of the production of their animals. Forty-seven members keep a record of the number of eggs laid by their flocks. Four members are trapping. Others have chosen to record the use of some kind of equipment, a road side stand, a house or a booth as a special 4-H item.

Some of the members are working topics such as: fire protection on the farm; weed control; poultry diseases; cutting forest debris; testing seeds, and care of vegetables.

Last year 12 members received eggs from the State Department.

Whatever special activities the advanced 4-H member selects is proving himself, broadening his cultural knowledge, and making him a useful citizen in his community.
